Introduction to the History of African Civilization explores the major issues dominating African Civilization from the earliest recorded period to the eve of colonial conquest of the continent. C. Magbaily Fyle begins with a discussion of the myths and prejudices underlying the African past, including the Islamic Conquest of the Sudan, the Kiluanjaro war, and the rise of the Zanzibar Sultanate. Through a series of case studies, he demonstrates how the African past continues to be misused by those in power, and how a new generation of Africans is becoming aware of the need to reassess the past.

By Fyle provides a new perspective on the Islamic Jihads, shifting focus from Sokoto and Macina to the Senegambia and the Upper Guinea region, and a revised interpretation of the Atlantic slave trade, which includes the importance of African objects to this process. He also discusses important cultural features such as the African food architecture, and typical structures of towns.

Specialists in various aspects of African history and civilization contribute to an integrated portrait of internal and foreign influences on the course of Africa's development.

The book challenges the Bantu Migratory Theory, Investigates the Names of the Continent, Examines the relationship between Europe and Africa, and assesses the impact of modern events on Africa.
